A NOTE FROM PRINCIPAL COUTURE:

Recently, some students at CPS have been playing a game called Huggy Wuggy during recess. After some research, I have discovered that Huggy Wuggy is a character from a show called "Poppy's Playtime". There is a lot of controversy about whether this show is appropriate for children, and there are multiple articles on-line that present evidence as to the pros and cons of the show and how it affects young children. I will let you decide, as parents, whether or not you approve of your child watching the show.

However, I feel that it is important for you to know that at school, our students have been told they cannot play the Huggy Wuggy game, which involves hugging another person until they die. First of all, we have a school rule to "keep our hands to ourselves". Second of all, a game which involves pretending to kill another person is not appropriate. You can be assured we're always on the lookout for things that may make others feel unsafe. In this case, the Huggy Wuggy game is one of those things. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

PE News

In Physical Education class this week, students played a volleyball type game called clean up the yard. The class was split into two teams and many beach balls were scattered on the floor. On signal, students hit the beach balls over the net. When I gave the signal, the students had to freeze immediately and the team with fewer balls on their side of the court is the winning team. They had a blast!
